CLEARANCE AND CASH-RAISING SALE

A Sale with Real and Genuine Bargains--Our Shoe Sales of the Past

Have fairly demonstrated to the people of Paris what a great opportunity our sales afford for money saving. The prices quoted here make a simple business proposition fully backed by our guarantee of fairness. We do not intend to carry over Winter Shoes for next season. We need a large amount of money for the Spring stock now arriving, hence this cut in prices.

Sale Begins January 29th.

Sheep-Killing Dogs Slaughtered.

Mr. Catesby Woodford had ten pure bred Southdown ewes destroyed by dogs Sunday night at Raveland Stock Farm, near this city. The sheep killed were valued at $150. On Monday night the dogs returned and attacked the sheep, but did succeed as they did the night before. Nightwatchman Earlywine killed eight, Mr. Woodford two and a negro farm hand one. The dogs are said to have come from Brecksville and colored suburbs of Paris.

J. S. Wilson Buys Large Tract of Land.

Mr. J. S. Wilson, of the firm of J. S. Wilson & Bro., of this city, has returned from a hunting trip to Oklahoma, and while there he purchased a tract of land in Mayes county, Oklahoma. The land is all bottom land, 200 acres is timbered, the remainder in cultivation and in grass. Mr. Wilson says he will plant 400 acres of corn and in the fall will seed the land to wheat and in the spring of 1911 plant the remainder to corn, making 800 acres to cultivation. Mr. Wilson has hunted over the farm for several years and says there are now on the premises more than 3,000 quail. He paid from $30 to $35 per acre for the land. Mr. Wilson returned to Oklahoma Tuesday to complete arrangements for the cultivation of the land and will not return home until some time in May.

Suit Postponed.

The suit of the Burley Tobacco Society against certain independent manufacturers in various parts of the country for refusal to take over their pro rata shares of Burley tobacco purchased at Winchester, was called for trial and postponed until Saturday.

Government Not Decided.

Assistant Attorney General Wade H. Ellis has reiterated his statement to the Louisville Times recently that the Government has not yet made up its mind in regard to the threatened prosecution of the Burley Society. Ellis' attention was called by several Washington newspaper representatives to interviews in Kentucky newspapers purporting to come from Burley Society representatives, all declaring that there will be no prosecution. Ellis declared that he had not yet seen the reports of the Government secret agents and could not decide until he had read this and then conferred with Attorney General Wickersham. Ellis also reiterated that there will be no more conferences with the Burley Society.

Senate Passes Another Bill.

The Senate passed one more bill Wednesday, that of Senator Wyatt, requiring that the elements of agriculture shall be taught in the common schools of the State. An amendment was adopted providing the manner of selecting the text books for the course prescribed. There was not a vote against the bill.

Catcher Pat Downing Dead.

Pat Downing, recognized in Central Kentucky as the best and most popular catcher in the Blue Grass League, died at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night as the result of a heavy cold contracted ten days ago.

Downing had gone to Cincinnati to look over some promising players in that city for the Lexington club, and while there contracted a severe cold which later developed into pneumonia. Up to two days ago his chances for recovery were thought to be good, but a sudden relapse Tuesday resulted in his death.

Downing played with the Shelbyville baseball team during the early part of last season, later going to Lexington, where he finished the summer out. During the latter part of the season he was made captain of the Lexington team and had already been selected by Manager Tommy Sheets as captain for next year.

At the close of the past season, he was selected as catcher for the All-Blue Grass team.

His brother, Jerry Downing, manager of the Postal Telegraph office in Frankfort, and Prof. Geo. P. Downing, assistant principal of the Frankfort high school, with his sisters, were with him in Cincinnati when the end came.

A Sitting Strut.

A prominent New York lawyer went to Georgia to address the Georgia Bar association.

Colonel Peter Meldrum was showing the lawyer around.

"You see that man," said the colonel, pointing out a distinguished person who sat on the hotel porch.

"I do."

"Well, suh, that is a man in whom our state takes great pride. He is Judge —, suh, the only man in Georgia who can strut sitting down."—Saturday Evening Post.

Natural Ventilation.

In cold weather the escape of air from closed, warm rooms through the porosity of walls and the leakage around doors and windows is much greater than is usually supposed. In some experiments by Arthur D. Little of Boston, a room of 615 cubic feet was in the second story of an ordinary clapboarded frame dwelling and the interior walls and ceilings were plastered and papered, the single window made as tight as possibly by putty, and the inner door was fitted with weather strips. Even in this room, natural causes made almost two complete changes of air an hour, as shown by tests of the carbolic acid. It would be interesting to know how the rate changes with the differences between outside and inside temperature, and what difference gives an ordinary "tight" family living room safe ventilation.

Plan Clogging Legislation.

Determined, it is said, to make all legislation secondary to the bill looking to an extension of the county unit law, "dry" members of the House are circulating a petition pledging themselves to vote against the passage or consideration of any measure from the Senate until such time as the Senate Committee on Religion and Morals shall have reported the Vice county unit bill and placed it upon its passage. A copy of the petition follows:

"We, the undersigned members of the lower house of the General Assembly of Kentucky hereby bind and pledge ourselves to work and vote against the passage or consideration of any measure coming from the Senate until the county unit bill now in the Senate shall have been called up and placed upon its final passage."

The petition, it is said, has been in circulation since Monday, and about forty House members have signed it. Those back of the petition are reticent about discussing it.

Several of the House members who are favorable to the county unit bill are opposed to what they term the radical step on the part of the circulators of the petition.

"I was sent here not to block the wheels of legislation," said one, "but to vote my sentiments on any measure that might come up. While I am in favor of the county unit bill, and would like to see it pass, there is too much other needed legislation to permit the action of the Senate last Thursday to stand in the way. I think it a mistake to have created the impression that the 'drys' mean to make every other question subservient to their wishes regarding the county unit bill. In my opinion it is going a bit too far to deliberately pledge one's self to tie up all legislation when the State is paying out good money to meet the expense of a legislative session."

Court Reverses Itself.

The Indiana Supreme Court reversed itself and held the gravel road law passed by the last Legislature constitutional, and thereby some $30,000,000 of bonds issued under the law and outstanding in Indiana, Ohio and Eastern States become valid.

Within the Car.

"Fare." The passenger gave no heed. "Fare, please." Still was the passenger oblivious. "By the ejaculatory term 'fare,'" said the conductor. "I imply no reference to the state of the weather, the complexion of the admirable blonde you observe in the contiguous seat, nor even to the quality of service vouchsafed by this philanthropic corporation. I merely allude, in a manner perhaps lacking in delicacy, but not in consciousness, to the monetary obligation set up by your presence in this car, and suggest that without tempering your celerity with enunciation you liquidate."

At this point the passenger emerged from his trance.—Tit-Bits.

Pat Crowe Wants to Find Kellner Child.

Pat Crowe, one of the most notorious bandits and kidnapers of America who in 1900 secured a ransom of $25,000, paid in gold by Edward Cudahy, the Omaha packer, for the return of his son, Edward Cudahy, who had been kidnaped, has been attracted by the kidnapping of Alma Katherine Kellner, and is anxious to work on the case, according to a special telegram from Chicago, where Crowe resides with his family, at 1054 Lawrence Avenue.

Frank Fehr, cousin of Alma, says that he is not wanted in Louisville by the Kellner family, and that if he comes and endeavors to solve the deep mystery involving the girl's disappearance it will not be at the invitation of the relatives. Mr. Fehr says that everything possible is being done to ascertain the child's whereabouts and her restoration but that the case remains without new developments.

Crowe was a fugitive from justice for six years following the kidnapping of Edward Cudahy. He was tried three times for the alleged abduction, but escaped conviction. He was engaged to work on the kidnapping case of Billy Whittle last year at Sharon, Pa., but the child was recovered a few hours before he was to act as the "go-between."

Free from Sin.

Among the many excuses for drinking one of the most convincing is that noted by Lord John Russell in the journal kept of his youthful travels in Spain. When visiting Plasencia he met a convivial ecclesiastic who expressed his astonishment that a scion of the aristocracy noted throughout Europe for their drinking prowess should prove so moderate in his potations. Lord John retorted that he had no desire to reach the six bottle standard set by some of his peers. His boon companion proceeded to rebuke him for his departure from sane tradition and concluded by remarking that "even on religious grounds you are wrong. For he who drinks well sleeps well. He who sleeps well sins not. And he who sins not shall be saved."

What Roads Owe to Salt.

Roads, we are told, owe a great deal to salt. According to one theory, the oldest trade routes came into existence as a result of the traffic in salt. One of the oldest roads in Italy is the "Via Salaria," along which the people of the Sabine country obtained their salt from the salt pans of Ostia. Salt was the main merchandise carried in the trans-Libyan caravans of the days of Herodotus, and salt is one of the chief elements in the trade along the Sahara caravan routes to-day. Salt and salt fish, it is interesting to remember, entered largely into the commerce of the Carthaginians. The latter, by the way, was considered a delicacy in those pre-Christian days.

WANTED

Everybody to know that I am paying higher prices for HIDES AND FURS

than any other house in Bourbon County. I have been in business in Paris for the last six years, and have built up a successful trade by giving honest weight and a square deal to everybody. Following are the prices I will pay for the next ten days:

Beef Hides, from 9c to 11c lb; Horse Hides, $2.25 to $3; Muskrat, from 35c to 50c each; Opossum, 25c to 65c each; Skunk, 50c to $3; Mink, $2.25 to $5.50; Raccoon, 40c to $1.40.

I also buy all kinds of junk, etc., and will gladly send a wagon after it if you will call phone 374.
